WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, DEC. 11, 1833.

THE COMMERCE FOR THE TRADE OF THE WEST.—We publish, to day, a communication, embracing some extracts of a letter from a highly respectable gentleman, at Warren, which will be found very interesting.

That portion of these extracts which relates to the trade of Trumbull county, and to the amount of our manufactures, especially of window glass, taken to the Lake, and sent to Detroit, and even to Buffalo, is certainly satisfactory. But persons who recollect the immense amount of produce, of various kinds, brought to this city, and the large quantity of our manufactures taken in return, some ten or twelve years ago, will scarcely need this evidence to satisfy them of the importance of the trade of the Western Reserve.—It has, to be sure, been asserted that the productions of this section of country have decreased, since so much of the land has been cleared.—The proposition, however, that the products of a country decreased, as the population increased, is too extravagant to need a reply. If less produce is now brought from the Reserve to Pittsburgh, than formerly, it is because a great portion of this produce is diverted to Montreal and New York.

The most interesting portion, however, of these extracts, is that which relates to the intercourse with New York and Philadelphia.—The statements, upon this subject, fully confirm what we had previously heard.—Complaints, as to the risks and delays of the Lake navigation, have been loud and frequent. The experience of the last season has destroyed all confidence in that mode of conveyance, and, hereafter, it will not be resorted to where it can be avoided, without a greatly increased expense. We know that merchants who had, for some years past, sent their goods by the way of Lake Erie, have declared that they would, hereafter, send them the whole distance by wagons, rather than again trust them on the Lake. The extracts from the letter exhibit the uncertainty, the delay, and the inconveniences produced by reliance upon Lake navigation, in a clear light.

Indeed, this is now so well understood, that the New Yorkers themselves are fully aware that, if they wish to compete with Philadelphia, for the trade of the Ohio country, after our "cross cut canal" is completed, they must have access to the Ohio, without recourse to Lake navigation. For this purpose they have already directed their attention to a canal from Rochester to Olean.—This, undoubtedly, is the only rout by which they can hope to compete, successfully, with Philadelphia, for the trade of the country south of Lake Erie.

To get goods from Rochester to Louisville, by the way of Cleveland, there must be a transhipment at Buffalo, another at Cleveland, and a third at Portsmouth.—But, if a canal were completed to Olean, only one transhipment would be required between Rochester and Louisville.

While we freely admit that this is the best possible rout, from New York to the valley of the Ohio, we do not pretend to assert that it is so advantageous as that which Philadelphia possesses.—On the contrary, we believe that, the Emporium of our own State has decided advantages, over all others, in the contest for the trade of the Great West.—These advantages, it is true, require to be improved, and Philadelphia has not, heretofore, been so enterprising as New York—but we trust that a new era has commenced, and that prudence is to be succeeded by activity.

PITTSBURGH.—We extract, from the New York American, a description of the country along the Ohio, from Wheeling to Pittsburgh, and also a notice of our city.

The accomplished traveling correspondent of that paper, having reached Wheeling, by the Cumberland road, came from thence to this city, in the "pretty steam boat" Gazelle. It was from on board of this boat that he had his first view of our two beautiful rivers, and the two noble bridges which span them—of our lofty Coal Hill—of the pits sunk into its sides—and of the furnaces at its base. Our readers will all be struck with the accuracy and beauty of this description of our triangular city. Our files will recognize an old acquaintance in the extract from our Carriers' New Year's Address.

Mr. Rapp, and the Economites, will probably dissent, toto viribus, from the assertion that their establishment, and that of Robert Owen, were organized upon the same plan.

The eloquent correspondent promises to give a further account of what he saw in our smoky city; and, as we know that he has taken pains to collect information, and to see what could be seen, we expect that his notice will be highly interesting to our readers.—We will republish it as soon as it comes to hand.

COMMUNICATED.

CROSS CUT CANAL.

A friend, in Ohio, who was asked to supply not general random assertions, but one or two characteristic facts, of undoubted authenticity, as to the intercourse with Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, thus writes, under date Warren, 4th December, 1833:

"Mr. Gilbert, a merchant of this place, made his purchases this season, partly in Philadelphia and partly in New York. His goods left Philadelphia via Pittsburgh, the 2d of October, and were received at Warren about the 21st of the same month. Those purchased in New York left that city via Albany on the 6th of October, and have not yet arrived here. They were landed at one of the ports on the shore of Lake Erie, a few days since.—Mr. Lewis, another merchant in this town, shipped his goods from New York by the same rout, on the 22d of October, and has not yet received any information from most of them since they left Buffalo.—Two other merchants of this place, whose goods were shipped at New York about the 20th of October, have, within two or three days, received information that portions of them have been landed at different ports from that to which they were consigned. A letter, under date of Nov. 22d, from the forwarding house in Buffalo, in reply to inquiries respecting the detention of the goods last mentioned, says—"We have shipped all your goods for Grand River. They left here day before yesterday, with the fleet, the first sail that has left this port in two weeks."

"Another letter from the same place, under date of Nov. 18th, 1833, states—"snow is from a foot to 18 inches deep, and has added much to our apprehensions of an early close of navigation on the canals. We hope your goods have got up, tho', for a time, we thought there was little prospect of it. We have a fleet of some sixty sail in port now, and not a vessel has left for the last ten days." Another letter, dated Buffalo, September 28, 1833, to a merchant in Warren, says—"You wrote us some days since, on the subject of the delay of your goods: I think this will convince you that we are not to blame. Your goods were shipped immediately on their arrival at Buffalo, but the vessel that had them was driven by Ashtabula in a gale, and brought up at the upper end of the Lake. She returned with the goods as soon as the weather permitted. Other vessels were driven by in the same gale."—I have thus been able to collect, within a few days, from the merchants in this vicinity, perhaps dozens of business letters of various dates, ranging from the middle of September to the last of November, showing the extreme uncertainty, hazard, and delay, attending this Lake navigation. Statements well authenticated, are at hand, that vessels within the last thirty days, with 12 to 18 passengers on board, have been out on the Lake 14 days before reaching their destined port, not two hundred miles from Buffalo, from whence they sailed."

In reference to Pittsburgh manufactures, the information is not less cheering.

"H. & C. Smith, of this place, inform me that they sent to Pittsburgh, the year past, from 75 to 80 tons of pearl ashes—more than 80 tons of cheese—between four and five hundred barrels of whiskey, together with considerable quantities of other articles, such as rags, pork, beeswax, deer skins, &c., and received in return, with other manufactures, fourteen hundred boxes window glass, which were transported by land to the Lake, and from thence shipped to Detroit and Buffalo.

"The operations of this house, in the Pittsburgh market, in glass and Pearlashes, for the last five years will not fall short of the above amount each year, and some of them will far exceed it. William A. Otis, of Bloomfield Township, situated upon the north line of the county, the most accessible to the Lake, and, it may be added, one of the most remote from your city, purchased, the last year, in Pittsburgh, nineteen hundred boxes of glass, destined for the Detroit and Buffalo markets, and sent to your place more than 80 tons of pearl ashes, beside other commodities. Many years within the last six, his dealings in those articles with Pittsburgh, have exceeded those of the year past, and in others, he has sent still greater quantities of pearl ashes to Montreal and New York than to your market."

It is impossible not to be struck with the efforts which some of our manufacturers successfully make, even now, to overcome the disadvantages attending over land transportation to a market. And how strikingly is displayed the natural superiority which the commercial emporium of Pennsylvania possesses over her great rival! What may not be hoped for, when there shall be opened, to the manufacturers of Pittsburgh, and the merchants of Philadelphia, a safe, cheap, and speedy conveyance to the very doors of their customers in the great West!

From the New York American.

The peculiar scenery of the Ohio, has been so graphically described by Flint, and Hall, in their various writings upon the West, that I will not detain you by dwelling minutely upon its features. The prominent characteristics of the river are, a clear, winding current, studded with alluvial islands, and flowing between banks, which now lie in a level esplanade of several hundred acres, elevated perhaps fifty feet above the water, and again swell boldly from the margin to the height of three or four hundred feet in headlands, which, when the mists of evening settle upon the landscape wear the appearance of distant mountains; when I add that an occasional farm house, with its luxuriant orchards, and other enclosures, may be found among the smaller "bottoms," while the larger ones are frequently enlivened by a bustling village, reposing in their ample bosoms, you have the main features of the Ohio, as I have seen it between Wheeling and Pittsburg. The windings of the river present, at every turn, some of the most beautiful views in the world, but the regular alternations of "bluff," and "bottom," give such a sameness to the landscape, that unless familiar with the points of the country around, one might be dropped in a dozen different places along the river, and not be aware of a change in his situation. Nature seems to have delighted in repeating again and again, the same lovely forms, into which she first moulded this favorite region.

We passed Rapp's flourishing settlement, called Economy, during the day, but only near enough to see the regular arrangement of the square brick dwellings, standing about twenty feet apart, on broad streets which intersects each other at right angles; the factories with their high cupolas; and the thriving orchards, and young vineyards, which stretch along the banks of the river beyond the suburbs. I may, hereafter, if I have time to visit it, give you some account of the present condition of this settlement, which as you know belongs to a society organized upon Mr. Owen's plan. The site of the town was formerly a favorite rallying point for the Delaware Indians, under their chief Monahatoocka, whose council fires once blazed where now the smoke of a dozen factories rolls from the chimnies of the German emigrant.—What a contrast between the toilsome race whose clanking machinery, is now the only sound that greets the ear as you near the shore, and the indolent savage, or laughter loving Frenchman, who once stalked along the borders or danced over the bosom of the beautiful river.

"How changed the scene since merry Jean Baptiste
Paddled his pirogue on La Belle Riviere,
And from its banks some lone Loyola Priest
Echoed the night song of the voyageur."

The afternoon sun shone warmly on the eastern bank of the river, where the increasing number of farm houses, and occasionally a handsome seat tastefully planted among them, with its hanging garden, not unfrequently kissed by the current of the river, indicated our approach to the city of Pittsburgh—the eastern head of the Mississippi Valley, and the key to the broad region bathed by its waters. Our course lay for a few moments among islands, that seemed to bloom in never dying verdure, and then as we escaped from their green tincture, the tall cliffs of the Monongahela, blackened by the numerous furnaces, that smoke along their base, and pierced in various points with the deep coal shafts that feed their fires, frowned over the placid water. It was just sunset, and the triangular city, with its steeples peering through a cloud of dense smoke, and its two rivers spanned each by a noble bridge, that seem when thus reviewed, a reflection of each other—lay before us. On the right, the calm and full tide of the Monongahela, flowing beneath rocky banks, some three hundred feet in elevation, was shaded by the impending height, and reflected the blaze of a dozen furnaces in its sable bosom.

On the left, the golden tints of sunset still played over the clear, pebbly wave of the Alleghany, and freshened the white outline of a long low built nunnery, standing on a sudden elevation back from the river. The dusty city lay in the midst, the bridges springing from its center terminating the view up both rivers; whilst the mists of evening were rapidly closing in, upon the undulating country that formed the back ground of the picture.—Truly, the waters have here chosen a lovely spot for their meeting, and it was but natural that such a stream as the Ohio should spring from such an union. Looking backward now, I could see that river, like a young giant rejoicing in its birth, sweeping suddenly on its course, but turning every moment among its green islands, as if to look back till the last upon the home of its infancy.

We entered the Monongahela, and disembarked a few hundred yards from the site of the old fort Du Quesne. The river was some twenty five feet lower than usual, and giving my baggage to a dray man in attendance, I ascended the bank, and soon found my way through streets, which though neither broad nor cheerful looking are still well built, to the Exchange Hotel, on the opposite side of the town. Here I am now housed, and after delivering my letters, and looking farther about the place, you shall have the result of my observation.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Patriot.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5th, 1833.

The regular detail of affairs in the newspapers of to morrow, will show you that warm work is approaching. Mr. Clay neither winks nor blinks at the profligacy of the times,—and to day, his rich musical voice and his strong mind were made to speak eloquently in behalf of an injured Constitution, and an outraged Senate. But Mr. Calhoun has thrown in the ball of contention,—and for my own part I hope he will succeed in procuring the Repeal of the Force Bill. It does no good now,—Its day is over. The ordinance of Nullification is repealed, and the country is quiet. Why then fasten this upon the Statute Book? Why give nourishment to nullification, for so long as that Bill is there, so long will the Nullifiers increase in number; so long will they make this their rallying point: so long will the country be alarmed and disquieted. Give us Peace, peace, then. Away with what does no good: away with the sword when the crisis demands no such weapon:—and, above all, take it away from such hands as now have it in their possession. They have seized the Treasury,—they hold the Purse,—for Heaven's sake, then, withhold the sword. Andrew Jackson is the very last man that ought to be entrusted with any power that the preservation of the Law and Constitution, do not immediately and imperatively demand.

I have seen Henry Clay come forward with the Olive Branch in two eventful periods of American History, pacifying an angry nation upon the most delicate subject that can ever agitate the Union,—and then after a series of years, even as a defeated candidate for the Presidency, I have seen him again bearing the Olive Branch, stemming the tide of legislation, defying enemies, risking the kindness of friends,—and yet trusting in the purity of his own good heart, periling all,—but saving the Union once more, and bringing satisfaction to all ranks and all parties. Well has he earned the title of the Great Pacificator,—and now may he further adorn his illustrious career by using his influence to finish, what he has so happily begun, and to give full peace to the South by exerting his great influence to repeal the Force Bill, and thus to quiet whatever apprehension may exist in the South as to any supposed tampering there ever may be with her peculiar population. If Mr. Clay but uses his influence, the Bill will pass in the Senate,—and then let the administration oppose it in the House, if they dare.

Mr. Archer, of Virginia, made some remarks, this morning in his place, in the House of Representatives, which has alarmed many of the Regency men as to the fate of Mr. Van Buren across the Potomac. Mr. A. was speaking upon the Moore and Letcher case, and took strong ground in favor of Mr. Letcher, and expressed great surprize that such a certificate as Mr. Moore's should be considered for a moment worthy of Congressional attention. That a man should ever be honest, alarms the followers of the Regency; and hence they are puzzled to know why and wherefore, Mr. Archer should step off of party grounds. They know that he had attended a Leigh meeting in Virginia, but they had reported, at the opening of the session, they had quieted him with a sop. Hence the strong ground he took to day, alarmed them much, and the news from North Carolina has alarmed more, so that they plainly see, that Mr. Van Buren is lost in the South, and that even Mr. Ritchie, with his see sawing politics, cannot save him.

At present there is no doubt that Col. Johnson is agreed upon as the candidate for the Vice Presidency, to run on the same ticket with Mr. Van Buren. The Colonel thinks he has a right to the upper position on the ticket, and will push for it, if he thinks he has a chance,—but if he is convinced that he has not, he will submit quietly to lend his name to give Van Buren votes. Mr. Wilkins, of Pennsylvania, objects to this arrangement,—but Mr. Wilkins, we are unblushingly told, is to be quieted in another way. Thus do Politicians bargain away the rights of the People!

From Smyrna.—By the brig Mermaid, Capt. Welch, the editors of the Boston Daily Advertiser have received the Journal de Smyrna of the 29th Sept.

A portion of Albania has been agitated by internal discord. A levy of 8,000 men had been ordered to be made in that country by the Porte. The inhabitants resolved to oppose to this measure a forcible resistance; an engagement took place in consequence at Argyro Castro, between the insurgents and Government troops, in which 2,000 of the former were cut to pieces or made prisoners. The insurgents then dispersed.

Accounts from Candia represent that, unless some powerful intervention shall take place, the island must become the theatre of civil war. The Greek population are determined not to submit to the rule of Mehemet Ali, and a deputation has been sent to the English and French admirals, desiring their intercession to obtain permission for them, from the Government of Egypt, to sell their property, and leave the Island.

Mehemet Ali had returned to Alexandria very much disgusted with his reception in Crete. It is said that he intends making a tour into Upper Egypt, either to examine personally the situation of his dominions, which are threatened with famine in consequence of the failure of the overflow of the Nile, or in order to hasten the preparations for an expedition against the rebels of Dgedda, who have taken several vessels in the Red Sea, and continue to interrupt the communication with Mocha. The Viceroy has resolved to lessen the number of European officers, and has already reduced their compensation, in all departments except that of the Navy.

The inhabitants of Syria continue to suffer from the oppression and exactions of Ibrahim Pacha. He is laboring to introduce among them the same system of civil and military government which prevails in Egypt.—Balt. Amer.

The Lisbon Constitutionel, of the 25th of October, has been received by the arrival of the brig Clitus, Capt. Kempton, from that port, at New York. The following letter, dated the 26th, which the Captain received from his consignee, just before sailing, draws rather an encouraging picture of the cause of Don Pedro and the spirit of his army. If the allusion to the volunteers be correct, as we presume it to be, it is of the utmost importance, and may be considered a decided proof of the people's adherence to his cause.—Phila. Chron., Dec. 7.

"On the 10th inst., a sortie was made by Don Pedro's forces upon the Miguelite army that besieged Lisbon. After a few hours hard fighting, with loss on both sides, the enemy lost their position and retreated. On the succeeding days, the enemy was pursued, but made very ineffectual resistance, following the road to Satarem, a strong military position, 14 Portuguese leagues from the capital. When they took that position, our army halted in the neighborhood, and no movement has taken place till this day; the supplies of the enemy, however, are beginning to fail them, and they will soon be forced to retreat, and will probably take the direction of the Spanish frontiers. The enemy musters about 1400 infantry, and 1200 cavalry; while our force is only 1200 infantry, and 6 or 700 horse—but the disparity of numbers is made up by the courage of the men. Lisbon is garrisoned by a large corps of volunteers, of which nuuubers have joined the army, and stood the fire like veterans, although they had been but a few days under arms."

What does this mean?—We find the following notices in the last Richmond Enquirer.

"Owners of Slaves in the city of Richmond are requested to meet on to morrow (Saturday,) at five o'clock, afternoon, in the Capitol, to adopt such measures as may be deemed expedient in the present crisis, to countervail what so injuriously affects their slave property."

"The owners of Slaves in the county of Henrico, are requested to meet next Monday, (being Court day,) at the county Court House, to adopt such measures as may be deemed expedient to countervail what, in the present crisis, so injuriously affects their slave property."

The Albany Argus contains a list of eighty applications for new banks, to be made at the next Legislature of New York, with an aggregate amount of capital of about forty-six millions of dollars; and a list of thirteen for an increase of capital in banks already established, amounting to a little short of four millions more.—Balt. Amer.

The Messrs. Dicks sent, this week, by the way of the French creek Canal and Allegheny river, a large boat, destined for Pittsburgh, laden with Pearl Ash and scorched Salts.

A boat on which was (our engineer) Mr Livermore's Household Furniture, safely arrived on Wednesday evening last, at the Aqueduct, from Franklin, by the French Creek Canal.

Since the above was in type, we have been informed that five boats loaded with the produce of the country, descended the canal on Wednesday, and two have arrived at the Aqueduct, from Franklin.—Meadville Messenger, Dec. 6.

DIED,

On the 10th inst., of pulmonary consumption, in the 18th year of her age, MARY E. PENNINGTON, daughter of Doctor Edward Pennington, deceased. When a delicate orphan, but seven years old, this young lady was taken into the family of Mr. and Mrs. Patchell, by them adopted and nurtured into womanhood; as their little charge grew in years, she gained in attractive qualities, entwining herself around their hearts with all the endearments of a beloved child, and becoming the only worldly hope and consolation of their declining years. Alas, how vain are all human calculations! like an ephemeral flower, the beauties of her person, and excellencies of her character, but expanded themselves to close in the gloominess of death.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
	other lots, containing about		6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving t emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
